Current use of tracking technologies

BioCred does not currently use advertising or analytics tracking cookies. Strictly necessary technical cookies or similar storage may be used to operate and secure the website and to support authentication and services requested by users.

Necessary technologies

Technical storage may be required for website functionality, secure access and fraud prevention. Where an exemption from consent applies under the relevant rules, these technologies do not require prior consent.

Your choices and contact

You can manage stored cookies through your browser settings; disabling strictly necessary technologies may affect the functioning of some services. For questions about cookies or personal data, contact contact@getbiocred.com.
